How to Build a Neural Network

I've been thinking about this stupid town I live in and this stupid country I live in and this stupid body I live in [not necessarily in that order] and how it relates to being a fag and things are getting dimmer and colder with each passing moment. I guess you caught me on one of my bad days.

I remember hearing from a friend about the lack of funky people in this town, and now I'm finally beginning to see what he meant. ATTENTION FUNKY PEOPLE (and you do know who you are): WRITE ME WRITE ME WRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEMEWRITEME. Did I mention for you to WRITE ME? Yeah, I guess I did.

Actually, I don't know what I have to complain about. Our fabulous COMMUNITY now has an outlet to be seen and heard and ACCEPTED in mainstream culture--OUT magazine! Oh, thank god for these soul-savers. I don't know where I'd be if my sexuality wasn't represented so RESPONSIBLY on those glossy, Benettoned pages. Now everyone will know about me and my "lifestyle" and even straight people (especially straight people) will understand me. Oh, where was I before issue #1 came out? OUT? Get it?!!

Anyways, if you have any ideas where I can move, tell me.

In the meantime, indulge in this thing I've made. I'd say it's been fun, but this is the first piece I've written so I can only speculate. But that's neither here nor there, hey. Enjoy.

We at Fuh Cole are using this 'zine as a device to get dates. Pure and simple. We think boys might find our humor cute and sexy and girls might project some nude fantasy involving a personality they've filtered from these pages.

How close are YOU to the real me?

So send me stuff.

1) Funny, frothing, angry things filled with fun and froth and anger. And frustration. Stories. Anything made up. Except, please, PLEASE NO POETRY!! My nose cannot handle anymore heartfelt bullshit, clipped line lengths, or gratuitous rhymes and literary references. Last time I read any fucking poetry, spaghetti came out of my nose--no kidding!

2) Photos. Fun with film. Send me something visual.

3) Drawings. Cartoons. Collages. Send me something visual.

4) Classified ads. Sell your car or yourself. I'm not above soliciting prostitution (as my best friends have discovered).

5) Letters. Oh, boy do I love letters. They buoy up my days. Letters. Letters. Letters. Oh, boy do I love letters.

So, tell the world about Fuh Cole and have 'em send $3 u.s. bucks c/o ...dave and they'll get a yummy treat in the mail within a coupla weeks. And with a disposable cover to boot--design it yourself!!!

What Are Neural Networks?

Just like people, neural networks learn from experience, not from programming. Neural networks are good at pattern recognition, generalization, and trend prediction. They are fast, tolerant of imperfect data, and do not need formulas or rules.

I heard he isn't even a skinhead, though.
I think he's a banker, or something.

What's going on in Beertown, USA? I've been hanging out here just kinda picking my nose at all that's happened in the last few months. Do you ever get the feeling that there's just MORE out there and you just can't quite reach it? It's not a hopelessness or existential angst or anything like that. It's more of a thing of hope, really.
I haven't given up by any means. I'm just getting a bit anxious, I guess.

I been having a lot of pissed up dreams lately. I dreamt about singing a duet with Stevie Wonder on "Solid Gold" the other night for chrissakes!

I'm not real sure what I'm getting at (if anything). It's one of those things that I think we've talked about before. It's upsetting but kind of cool, too.

Okay, well I'm gonna go do the laundry. I thought about Michael Stipe just now and then I thought of you.

Brian,

Hey, me again. Glad you dug the 'zine.

Yes, indeed, school beats flaccid dick big time. All those jocks and shitholes are giving you heat because they secretly long for a throbbing dick to be in their mouths/asses.

's true.

You'll slowly hear over the years that Billy Bob has turned into a big queen and Joe-football player totally wanted and admired you for sticking up for yourself and being a fag.

At least it's cool
that you ARE a fag.

Just graduate at the semester to get out and work from there. I didn't have too many friends from my school, and the ones I did want to hang out with weren't
"cool" (whatever that is) to everyone else. Who cares--it's high school?!

Graduate then you can move from home and start becoming a human being.
I dunno how your folx are but being on your own for the first time is cool.
You start becoming you more (At least I did.).

Listen, I have to go to my stupid job. Hope you like the 'zines I sent. There's lotsa addresses and reviews and stuff, so do some net-

That's how I got started.

NOY NKVHT

Hi, Dave!

This is all very strange, but remember when I wrote you, I was supposed to be on the boats? Well, that very afternoon, I was given the run around again and as luck would have it, they tell me, "Sorry, call back again in a few weeks."

I'd already quit my other job and didn't have Sept.'s rent--the landlord was hounding me daily. So it became urgent I split--I decided to come out west (I'd been thinking of visiting a friend, Walt, from high school days.).

So I took the Amtrak out to L.A. then up to Salt Lake City for two days then arrived in Denver. I should've written you sooner--I talked to Chris and she told me you were looking into an airline job? Sounds cool. You'd get to travel.

Well, I'm living in Boulder right now with Walt who's going to college for a journalism degree (but is sick of it after 2 years.). The mountains are gorgeous--his appt.'s in a woody area 'bout a mile from the main area of town. To get there, you follow a path which winds along a rushing creek through a small forest. The air is really dry, pure and chilly--it's a refreshing change from life in the city.

Boulder's alright--a college town--lotta hippies and artsy types, wanderers, but mostly wealthy students. The Naropa Institute is just around the corner from here. I've been hanging around there a little bit. Maybe I'll see Ginsberg. If I find him, I'll let you know. It's hard, though, becuz there's a lot of guys running around out here w/big bushy, black beards, glasses and bald skulls.

I'm gonna try to find a job in Denver ('bout ½ hr. on the bus from Boulder) or else some job up in the ski resorts for the winter. When I get more time I'll be able to write you again.

Anyway, I hope this letter gets to you before you leave for Houston (was it?). Just wanted to let ya know what's goin' on. Good luck with that magazine you're doing. Take care.

DAVID WOJNAROWICZ BUY HIS BOOKS!

- ① Close to the Knives
 - ② Memories that Smell like gasoline
 - ③ David Wojnarowicz: Tongues of Flame
- (and ④ some old book that's out of print)
I don't remember the name.

Buy his books and read them. If you're broke, borrow them from someone. If no one you know has them, visit a lending library. If the library doesn't have them, then... well... then go Kill yourself because you'll probably never read them and then you might as well be dead because life would not be bearable any longer. Got it?!

This guy took me home and at one point grabbed my arm and said make a fist. He suddenly pushed it against his butt. My hand disappeared. I was all shook up. Where did my hand go? I wondered.

Printed without permission from "Memories that Smell like Gasoline"

One day this kid will get larger. One day this kid will come to know something that causes a sensation equivalent to the separation of the earth from its axis. One day this kid will reach a point where he senses a division that isn't mathematical. One day this kid will feel something stir in his heart and throat and mouth. One day this kid will find something in his mind and body and soul that makes him hungry. One day this kid will do something that causes men who wear the uniforms of priests and rabbis, men who inhabit certain stone buildings, to call for his death. One day politicians will enact legislation against this kid. One day families will give false information to their children and each child will pass that information down generations to their families and that information will be designed to make existence intolerable for this kid. One day this kid will begin to experience all this activity in his environment and that activity ty and information will compel him to commit suicide or submit to danger in hopes of being murdered or submit to silence and invisibility. Or one day this kid will talk. When he begins to talk, men who develop a tear of this kid will attempt to silence him with strangling, fists, prison, suffocation, rape, intimidation, drugging, ropes, guns, laws, menace, roving gangs, bottles, knives, religion, decapitation, and immolation by fire. Doctors will pronounce this kid curable as if his brain were a virus. This kid will lose his constitutional rights against the government's invasion of his privacy. This kid will be faced with electro-shock, drugs, and conditioning therapies in laboratories tended by psychologists and research scientists. He will be subject to loss of home, civil rights, jobs, and all conceivable freedoms. All this will begin to happen in one or two years when he discovers he desires to place his naked body on the naked body of another boy.

PERSONAL AD WRITING TIPS:

1. Always include your age in your ad - or at least an age range of the person you would like to meet.
2. Spend more time in your ad describing your own interests, hobbies, character traits, and less time describing your ideal date.
3. You limit your number of responses when you request a photo. Lots of terrific people wishing to respond to your ad do not have a photo available.
4. Keep in mind you are selling yourself. Make your ad positive and upbeat. Don't list things you don't like, but rather those things that you enjoy, have a passion for, or would like to try.
5. If you are having trouble figuring out what to say in your ad, try reading through both the male AND female ads in this issue for ideas and catch phrases. Men, pay particular attention to how the ladies are describing the person they would like to meet, and women, read what the men are looking for in a date. Use those words or phrases in your ad to describe yourself!

By following these simple suggestions you can increase the number of responses to your ad and maximize your chances of meeting someone terrific!

We got together at the Stork Club, and he turned out to be this long-haired hippie pot-head who used to make milk shakes out of nuts in California.

Strike one

Then this Duncan guy called. What an asshole!

His message: "Hi! I was intrigued by your ad and would like to meet you. My

So I was sitting in bed one night, and I decided right there that I was gonna make up a personal ad to meet a boy and send it to a local paper.

I wrote one draft and then changed it at work the next day.

My ad certainly wasn't going to be some boring GWM/likes and dislikes/upbeat bullshit thing. After all, I was shoveling almost $2 for the thing! I was gonna make this one count.

So I sent it in and within 5 days I got my first voice mail reply. His name was Stefan and I wasn't too impressed by his message. But I took out the ad to meet boys, so I decided to meet him anyway.

Tips For Responding to Personal Ads

The goal of responding to a personal ad is to get the ad writer to call you. Only then will you be able to effectively communicate with the ad writer, enabling you to ascertain whether or not you want to set up time and place to meet in person. Keeping in mind your goal, there is one simple adage to remember: First impressions are everything.

Responding to an ad with a phone call

You can respond to all personal ads by using your telephone. When calling, speak clearly, and slightly slower than normal, directly into the phone. Tell the ad writer why you selected his/her personal ad to respond to, give a brief physical description of yourself, and tell the ad writer your hobbies, interests and goals. Then, and most importantly, leave your name and phone number (work number if you prefer), a best time to call, and, if you like, your address. Repeat your name and number again, slowly.

Responding to an ad with a letter:

Don't:

- 1) Don't send photocopied "generic" letters designed to answer any personal ad.
- 2) Don't write on a piece of paper torn out of a spiral notebook and don't write on hotel/motel or your company stationery.
- 3) Don't write about things you dislike or hate doing - Don't be negative.
- 4) When sending your envelope for forwarding, avoid folding it by using a larger outside envelope to enclose it in.

Do:

- 1) Respond on a neat, clean sheet of paper, stationery, or greeting card. Make a point to write neatly and legibly. Print if necessary.
- 2) Tell the ad writer why you liked his/her ad, and describe yourself in 3-6 paragraphs.
- 3) Keep your letter positive and "upbeat."
- 4) Enclose a photo if you have one to spare - and make sure it is a flattering photo of you.
- 5) Include your name, phone number (work number if you prefer), and your address, if you like. Also include a best time to call.

Remember, first impressions are everything and you only have one chance to "sell" yourself when responding to a personal ad.

Guess which one's mine.

Hello #3439

#

So I'm going up and down the list looking for anything I can really dig, but all I get is static. Hey even static makes sense sometimes. It's never nothing more than what it is. Static is awesome! It can't be influenced, altered or exploited. It's out there and when nobody else is around - it is.

Saw your thing in the Shepherd. Couldn't resist writing something back. Man, you are just hanging right out. It's like, what the hell who is this person?

Hey, my lava lili's looking and I got James Taylor on the stereo. My name is Wes and I'm a "child of the 60's". Oh what a time we had! But also the times they are a-changin'.

When I dropped out I got something more precious than gold. I got myself! and "me" keeps going on and on and renewing itself.

I like your reference to "anti-assimilation." I work the circle from the outside and once in a while read in for what I want and then get the hell out.

I listen more than I talk. I give a damn about what's happening to me and if it helps somebody else well, that's cool.

It's into music art philosophy nature and breathing. Not necessarily in that order.

I'd like to talk more if you want to. Reach me after 7 evenings anytime. 555-3046.

Take care,
Wes

I actually got this letter from some guy. I mean, did he honestly think I was gonna answer him? I am a freak, but not even nearly as close as this...

name is Duncan, and I'm in the entertainment field. I am in the closet, so I hope you respect that, tee hee! I was kinda looking for a younger brother-type to take under my wing, so leave me a message. And please be discreet."

FUCK YOU!!!!

I was gonna call back and say, "Hey, Duncan. Look, I'm not into any flaming entertainer closet cases, so go bite yourself. How arrogant to think that I need to be taken under YOUR'S or anybody else's wing. Buzz off, faggot! Oh, and this is about as discreet as I can be." But the call turned out to be long distance, so I didn't bother.

Strike two.

Mel-o-drama

Family Man:

I Was Mel Gibson's Fuck Puppet

Sexy star of the Lethal Weapon three-some (so far, at least) and champion of lezbo/gay liberation, Mel Gibson, recently threw a curve ball at me.

I flew stand-by from Milwaukee to New York City and while changing planes in Chicago, there was a big commotion at the gate I was flying out of. Oh my god--Hamlet!!!

I couldn't believe it. There he was--fellow crusader--but 30 feet away from me gleefully signing autographs and kissing children and winking at wives and growling with the other men. Not a bodyguard in sight. Wow, Mr. Gibson (Mel, he later allowed me to say), felt secure and humble enough not to travel with an entourage of security.

Not like that poseur-fag, Prince.

Most passengers had boarded the plane and I was the last to board and the only seat I could get was in first-class and who did I sit next to...but Mel Gibson!

It struck me odd that he wouldn't be flying coach. First was certainly a luxury he could afford after pocketing $8 Million for his last movie. But didn't you see him on Barbara Walters? He wore blue jeans!

Anyway, he greeted me with a warm, sexy "g'day." The flight attendants kept on coming over and bugging us, but Mel said that he had to get some work done (he really

We all know how stupid straight people can be, but what's worse is when they try to front a thin veil of "acceptance" by being "cool about us." A typical reply usually starts with:

"It's okay [being homo]..." but behind all this posturing lurks a warty monster that deserves to get punched. It's called fear. It's called homophobia. It's called heterosexuality.

We at Fuh Cole have devised a simple guide to call all that tight-assed bullshit fake neo-liberal heartfelt togetherness "acceptance" douche bag speak.

We all liked word games as a kid, right? Well, you never out grow a good word game. Simply match the action verb from column 'a' with a common noun from column 'b' * [see sampler] and, voila!, you have a snappy comeback to any amount of filth those spew-chuncks can spurt.

Ready? Okay...

1 It's okay--I don't UNDERSTAND, but I'll leave you alone.

2 It's okay as long as you keep it in your own bedroom.

3 It's okay, but why are ALL gays/lesbians so femmy/butch?

4 It's okay, but why do you insist on SPECIAL RIGHTS?

5 It's okay, but how would the human race survive if we were

ALL gay?

6 It's okay--we still love you.

For Advanced Students ONLY

Don't merely stick with our suggestions--expand your comeback repertoire by creating more verb/noun combos of your own: "Poke my balls" or "Flick my slit." Use foreign languages, Braille, signing, interpretive dance...anything. The list is virtually endless!

Actually, whenever ANYBODY so much as BREATHEs "It's okay," or any similar conciliatory remark as some "condition" for your "condition" (as "okay implies), simply draw from your new reservoir of retorts and/or administer a heavy dose of violence--whatever seems appropriate for the situation.

Remember, the world is full of assholes. These do-gooders can be very sneaky, so be on your guard. It's best to practice a combination that feels comfortable to you so you can more quickly offer a reply. Spontaneity, however, has proven remarkably successful on numerous occasions. A flippancy, "Tongue my snatch" can feel much more satisfying than a rehearsed, "Fuck my ass" when tempers flare.

Just keep in mind that you're smarter, and you can be confident that when you walk away from the situation, your so-called "friend" will be cowering in fear or (hopefully) in tears.

Done it before--'s fun.

didn't) so could they leave him alone for a bit? After all, movie stars need their peace, too.

After about an hour, he leaned back and fell asleep. I found myself travelling his torso with my eyes. Mel has very solid forearms and no chest was better suited to wear a t-shirt than Mel's. I kept on thinking that I'd seen him shirtless a zillion times on t.v. and that aroused me, but he didn't go around flashing his naked butt in every movie like that boring Kevin Costner. Too bad.

One time, he caught me staring and he held my gaze for a moment too long and I know that look and it seemed weird coming from such a straight guy as Mel Gibson. He has 10 kids for Christsakes!

Well, this "family man" reached over and touched my thigh. I was shocked and surprised. And hard. (Wouldn't you be?) He started rubbing me. "Wow, you're so big," he said.

Mel always knows just what to say.

He slowly bent down and started undoing my zipper. No sooner had he fished out my dick than it was in his soft, wet mouth. He had obviously done this before, because Mel was SENSATIONAL! This surprised me a little because he'd been married for like 100 years and all those beautiful women he kissed in the movies. Like Michelle Pfeiffer. But he knew what a guy like me likes.

I spasmed an excited, hot load right into his mouth and he gobbled every spurt. He sat up and said, sweetly, "I go down under more often than you'd think."

LETHAL WEAPON 3

I giggled. He kept throwing in these childish puns about his native Australia and it made him seem so vulnerable.

Soon afterward, however, the flight attendants started vulturing around us once more and then we landed so I didn't get the chance to reciprocate the favor. God, me--little me from Milwaukee--sucking the huge, movie star shlong of Mad Max! Oh, dare to dream...

His publicist was waiting for him when we landed, and I never saw Mel in person again. But just as we were gathering our carry-ons to depart, he brushed his sweet, pink lips against mine and our faces lingered for a long few seconds in a delicate embrace--the last memory I have of Mel.

So, what did I take away from this experience? From now on, I'll never miss another Mel Gibson movie. I'll always find a way to fly first-class even if I don't have the money. And, lastly, I'll never, ever, believe the hype of cavalier Hollywood so-called "straight" men. Like Arnold. And Tom. And Swayze. Oh, and that Matthew Broderick guy.

Ending the Military Ban Against Gays/Lesbians Must Be Lifted Now

Clinton vows to end Pentagon ban; court orders sailor reinstated

In June of 1991, before he had even announced his candidacy for President, Bill Clinton told me that he favored ending the ban on Lesbians and Gays in the military. Now that he is the President-Elect, the issue of Gays and Lesbians in the military has ignited the first firestorm of the Clinton Presidency.

Rescind Anti-Gay
Military Policy

Most NATO allies allow Gays in uniform

The Federal Court of Canada struck down the military's ban on Gays and Lesbians Oct. 27, saying it violated the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, Canada's bill of rights.

Clinton sticks to guns
on military Gays

The debate rages: Let's hope that in one of his first acts in office Clinton keeps his word: It's time we put this issue behind us.

Top Generals Ease Stance on Ban

At first, I thought the military ban on homosexuals was unjust and discriminatory and should be reversed. BUT THIS 'TOON SAYS IT ALL.

Yeah, it sucks that people are losing their careers for being homo--but their careers are being trained to be robot-killers! Consider it a blessing that we can't be drafted.

"WWIII? Oh, sorry. I like it up the ass. I think I'll be leaving now."

Don't fuck up a good thing while you have it, assholes.

It's like women fighting to be used in combat. Duh!

"PLEASE don't screw me over just because I have a cunt. It's bad enough we have to have babies, but if you don't let me kill 3000 Panamanian civilians, I'll just SCREAM!"

Get a clue, fags. Wise up, dykes.

If they lift the ban, everyone is still going to hate you. The only thing that'll change is you'll have to fight for this stupid country's "freedom" (Like it's being threatened.).

... cont...

Get a clue, fags.

Wise up, dykes.

Get a spine and tear up any petitions about the subject you see. Slug those self-righteous 10% Society people-- they're the ones spearheading this nonsense. Then find some sexy Marine and give him the dick sucking of a lifetime.

REMEMBER: Homosexuals ARE a security risk. A BIG one. Make buttons and stickers. Write the stupid Congress and the stupider President. Tell all your friends that sharing barracks with 50 other men is like letting an alcoholic run a liquor store.

How are you supposed to contain yourself? There'll be same-sex coupling day and night. How is the drill sergeant supposed to ritualistically humiliate young men when he's bugging some horny private?

It's a good rule. Make sure everyone knows it. We need to stand tall as a COMMUNITY against this inanity. We can do it. I know we can.

The physiological ecology of whales and porpoises

1. Small porpoises in cold waters should not be able to survive due to heat loss. Which of the following best explains this "paradox":
- porpoises are different from terrestrial mammals in the mouse-elephant curve.
 - porpoises have a higher basal metabolic rate.
 - ☒ both of the above.

2. Give 1 reason why a large whale's blubber layer is thicker than expected for insulation purposes alone.

During long treks to reproduce, the ~~water~~ whales can feed off the thick blubber and concentrate on their work instead of worrying about catching dinner.

3. Which does not contribute to a cetacean's ability for long dives?
- increased blood volume.
 - myoglobin
 - ☒ shunting blood to the heart and brain.
 - increased amount of hemoglobin

4. Which is larger, the total human fisheries take, or fish consumption by toothed whales?

5. Are cetaceans susceptible to symptoms of nitrogen absorption into the blood during long, deep dives?

Later, I got a message from some Matt guy who had a girlfriend of 3 years but wanted to "taste the forbidden fruit." That would be me. So I wrote him ("No phone calls," he said) and sent him a picture and was kinda turned on by this whole deal. He ended up calling a week later saying that there was some mix-up and he thought he was answering a Single Black Female ad!

What the hell?! Like he couldn't tell it was a boy from my message. The name, Dave, certainly doesn't give it away. He didn't even return my picture, the fucker.

Strike three. I'm out. Game over.

I ended up getting at least one call a day (and one letter from a total flake), but most of the guys were older dad-types who were interested in my ad but seemed WAY too uptight and WAY too unsavory.

I did end up meeting this hot architect named Wade. We really hit it off, so I thought this would lead to something. He was going out of town for 2 weeks but said he'd call me when he got back.

Dear Jon,

I would like to apologize for taking so long in responding to your letter and requests. I have had a very busy schedule since the '88 Olympics' and I did not realize that an awful lot of my mail was not getting to me, resulting in a very large amount of unanswered letters. I did, however, resolve my problem and would like to introduce and tell you about my sister. Her name is Despina Latus and she will be helping me respond to the volume of letters and requests that I receive. I want to thank you for all the support and interest you have shown for me. As you have probably heard, I have retired from Diving and will be working on a career in the theatrical and entertainment world. I am striving to do as well at this as I have done with my Diving. If there are any other requests you might have, I will try my best to respond to them and I greatly appreciate self addressed and stamped return envelopes. Once again, thank you for the support and interest you have given me. I really appreciate it.

Sincerely,

Greg Louganis
(authentic signature)

I have this friend, Jon, and he was obsessed with Greg Louganis in high school. He collected any article and any picture of The Greatest Gay Diver in the World and saved them in a scrapbook. I've seen it. It's pretty scary.

You could imagine the excitement and anticipation in this young boy's life as he sent off a letter to his idol...AND RECEIVED A REPLY!

I guess people in school would give him shit about Greg being a fag, but Jon would defend Greg's heterosexuality to the end. He's still a little defensive about the matter even today.

Jon's also a big Gap Queen.

But he's okay, really.

Editorial: A Dissection

Homophobic Racism

TO THE EDITOR:

In this day and age when the struggle for equality amongst all people is still a dream instead of a reality, each man and woman must speak out whenever they see an injustice committed. My recent vacation to California brought about my duty to speak up.

While on vacation last month, I encountered a situation that left me angry, upset and insulted. I am referring to Gay bashing.

While Gay bashing can take many forms, physical and violent or verbal or both, it can also be more subtle. Such was the type I witnessed while visiting Knotts Berry Farm.

I was watching a so-called "Wild West Stunt Show" with "Professional Hollywood Stuntmen." One of these stuntmen hurled insults at the other implying that because of the clothing he had on that he must be effeminate and Gay.

He called his planted audience "assistant" his "Sister" and "Girlfriend." The jokes, one-liners and insults, left no question in anyone's mind that Gay men are supposed to dress like "sissies," act effeminate and are worthy of scorn, insults and derision. His attempt to portray Gay men in a very negative light was viewed as humorous by many in the audience, but I could also see others who were equally upset by the show.

Making fun of Gays and Lesbians is the last form of acceptable racism, sexism and stereotyping left in society. This type of discrimination is not acceptable when you are on the receiving end. We never choose to be who we are. Who in their right mind would choose to have to deal with insults, put-downs, being beaten, losing your job and, in some cases, your life, just because of one small part of your personality.

It is time to bring ALL forms of racism, including that towards Gays and Lesbians, out of the closet where it dwells and expose it for the fear that it really is; simply the fear of that which is unknown, unfamiliar and therefore frightening. The shows portraying homophobic racism at Knotts Berry Farm must stop and learn what tolerance and acceptance of that which is unfamiliar to us is all about.

▼ The Wisconsin Light — Alan Stroik Milwaukee

What's unfamiliar to me is how stupid fags like you, Alan Stroik, actually get your voice aried in dumb rags like the "Light." If anybody had any sense at all, there'd be an editorial about how lame the music is at La Cage. Ever hear of guitars? If they play that dumb "Deeper and Deeper" Madonna song again, I'm going to rip out someone's vas deferens. Oh, and anymore Army of Lovers, too.

I mean, get a clue, Alan. Next time, take a real vacation and you won't see anything that "compromises" you so much. Just take lots of 'em, though, 'cuz that'll mean less time you spend in Milwaukee.
